

Oral health for autistic children

This booklet from the Dental Health Foundation is designed to support parents and carers of autistic children in promoting good oral health. It offers practical tips to help you establish a dental care routine that suits your child's unique needs.

Can sun damage really last a lifetime?

Sun damage in childhood can last a lifetime. Even a few serious sunburns early in life can increase the risk of skin damage and skin cancer later on.

Watch this 1-minute video from dermatologist Dr Blaithin Moriarty to learn simple, effective ways to protect your child's skin in the sun.

Helping children when someone dies

This short leaflet helps parents understand how children may react after a death. It explains common feelings and behaviours at different ages, and how adults can help. It reminds parents that every child grieves differently and that support and routine can make a big difference.

Test your knowledge and win!

Answer 1 simple question to be in with a chance to win a One4All voucher for YOU and sports equipment for your child's school. The closing date is Friday June 19. Well done to Stapolin Educate Together NS who were the winners in Issue 5.

